To Whom it may concern:

I am retired from the U.S. Air Force after over 22 years of faithful service.

My question is, why does the Air Force continue to put the entire Social Security Number on all Active Duty and Retirees ID cards??? This is insane.

The Government tells everyone NOT to put your SSN number in their wallet, but I have to have my ID card to get around base, etc. It's downright scary if I lose my wallet.

Why does the Commissary and AAFEES still use the SSN in their computers??

My recommendation for the AF, is to go back to the old Service number idea. Maybe make it simple by using the last 4 or 6 numbers of the SSN and some letters from your last name.

These ideas are nothing new and have been kicking around for over 20 years that I know of, please do something about this.

I know there are alot of computers that would have to be updated and that would be very costly, but we need peace of mind.

Thank You
